

WorldCast Anglers' Turpin Meadow Backcountry Adventure: Turpin Meadow Ranch - Moran, WY

Wilderness Description:

WorldCast Anglers' Turpin Meadow Backcountry Adventure: Turpin Meadow Ranch - Moran, WY Wilderness Description: The state's second largest Wilderness area straddles the Continental Divide deep in the heart of Wyoming's Yellowstone Ecosystem. It is bordered on the north by Yellowstone National Park, on the east by Washakie Wilderness, on the west by Grand Teton National Park, and on the south by the Gros Ventre Wilderness. This area is vast, spectacular, and relatively unspoiled.

Teton Wilderness ranks among this nation's best wildlife areas. Summer brings trumpeter swans, sandhill cranes, ducks, geese, falcons, and song birds. Grizzly bears, grey wolves, moose and elk wander across meadows. Golden and bald eagles, hawks, grouse, coyotes, beavers, martens, bobcats, porcupines, otters, and mink live here year-round.

Approximately 450 miles of trails provide access to this popular area. About half of the visitors to this area come expressly to hunt and fish. Home to numerous large predators, Grizzly and Black Bears, Grey Wolves, and Mountain Lion, it is strongly recommended that all visitors take precautions and come prepared to recreate accordingly.

The fly-fishing is focused on the confluence of North & South Forks of the Buffalo River, a headwater tributary of the Snake River. This vast, spectacularly scenic, and unspoiled wilderness offers exceptional dry fly fishing for indigenous Yellowstone Cutthroat Trout.

Itinerary:

Day 1: Arrive Turpin Meadow Ranch (TMR) for a welcome breakfast with WCA guides and meet wranglers (<http://www.turpinmeadowranch.com>). After breakfast, enter the Teton Wilderness Horse pack to headwaters of the Buffalo Fork River, a tributary of the Snake River. Depart TMR mid-morning on horseback and arrive at base camp by early afternoon, divide group and wade fish streams and associated tributaries of the Buffalo Fork. The backcountry camp is established by TMR wrangler staff. All sleeping accommodations (tents and bedding), food and beverage are provided.

Day 2 and 3: Full Day Teton Wilderness and Fly Fishing Exploration. Explore the Teton Wilderness, part of the most remote and roadless area within the lower 48 states.

Day 4: Teton Wilderness exploration and late return to TMR. Explore the wilderness, stream-side lunch, return to break camp by mid-afternoon. Ride back to the ranch and depart for home or arranged accommodations.

Pricing: $4,050 per rod, all-inclusive:

Four days and three nights of horse packing and backcountry camping with all meals, wranglers, camp hand, and fly-fishing access and support by WCA.
